

TARIFF PICTURES.

"The Press" recently showed how Protection had expanded the home production of shoes and reduced its price at the same time. But its benefits have not stopped with that. It has likewise built up an enormous export trade for shoes. In 1890 our total exports amounted to 10,000,000 pounds. In 1892 they were

11,769,040 pounds. Thus does the much abused tariff do every side.

AT HIS OLD TRICKS.

Chicago Inter Ocean.—Governor Jewell says he has faith that the Populists will carry Kansas next year without the aid of the Democrats. The Governor is dreaming through his lid again.

WEAKENING.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.—Cleveland beat the snappers in 1892. It is his fault of them now, and is holding back his New York appointments on their account, his spunk has been overestimated.

1493-1503

Louisville Times.—The cost of fitting out the little fleet with which Columbus discovered the New World, was $3,000. The hotel bill of the Duke of Veragua, eleven in descent from Columbus, for one week at the Columbus Exposition, is $2,500.

TWO TO ONE FOR PROTECTION.

New York Press.—The iron keeps on entering the soul of Professor William G. Sumner of Yale. In spite of all he has done to keep the Free trade flag flying at New Haven Yale seniors continue to stand about two to one in favor of Protection. There were, in the class of 1893, 55 Free traders and 43 Protectionists, or 44 per cent. for Protection; in 1890, 40 Free traders and 36 Protectionists, the latter numbering 47 per cent.; in 1881, 40 Free traders and 30 Protectionists, or 58 per cent.; in 1882, 42 Free traders and 38 Protectionists, or 64 per cent., and now there are 36 Free traders and 71 Protectionists, or almost exactly the same percentage of the latter as in 1892. This growth has taken place since the complaint became notorious that only one side of political economy was taught at Yale, and measures were taken to see that the students heard both sides.

THE IRRECONCILABLE VIEW.

New York Tribune.—The Presbyterian Church will trouble seriously from this condemnation of Professor Briggs. It has arrayed itself in opposition to the Christian scholarship of the day. It has made itself, theologically, one of the narrowest, if not the narrowest, of all the larger Protestant sects, and it has committed itself to a view of the Bible which not only cannot be proved, but which Christian scholars who are listened to by intelligent people everywhere as can be disproved by the Bible itself. A sect which decides to stand or fall on the assertion that Moses wrote the whole of the Pentateuch may be respected for its sincerity and honesty. But no intelligent man who believes that such a question must be decided by the evidence of men who have investigated the subject will find himself able to join it.

WHAT A PREMIUM ON GOLD WOULD MEAN.

"Even the very smallest premium on gold would upset all our accounts at once," said a cashier of a broker's firm on Broadway. "I was at one time foreign exchange clerk when gold was at a premium. We used to keep credits either in gold or in currency, charging them in gold as the customer ordered. One of our clients went abroad, and I had forgotten to ask him before I opened the account how he wanted it, gold or currency. So I kept it in currency, and gold was steadily falling. He paid no attention to it, and when he returned and I settled up he was $17,000 better off than he thought he was. He had not taken into account, drawing as he did in gold, that the purchasing power of the currency was steadily appreciating all the time in proportion to the fall of gold." This illustrates how the Republican party enriched the country, making every paper dollar worth gold. Is the Democratic party bent on reversing this policy and profit?
